CHAMBER OF HORRORS NY

This is Kerry Stellar from In The Girls Corner for ExPlus Magazine. I recently visited Chamber of Horrors in Hauppauge, NY, if you're looking for an interactive haunted house, this ones for you. Also keep in mind, I would use personal discretion if you're bringing a kid under 14, as this production is brilliantly created.

From the "Killer Clowns", to witches, ghouls, ghost and plenty of gore at almost every turn, this interactive maze will have you so turned around and, afraid, and a bit jumpy, and this is coming from someone it takes a lot to scare).

It's dark, and creepy, you always have the feeling something is either behind you or about to jump out at you.

They will follow you, they will chase you, but they won't put their hands on you, so please keep yours to yourself.

A special event is held every Sunday. They turn the lights out, and hand each group a glow stick. One glow stick per group (not each person), if that isn't scary enough, you don't want to be the last in the line. Also be aware of your surroundings, if you can. Every turn seems to turn into another, and just when you think you've caught up with your party, you'll find yourself split up (I think they did that on purpose), wear sneakers, you may "walk really fast" as I told a clown chasing me.

On a personal note the production was absolutely amazing. The makeup, costumes, props... The quality of it all was so incredible, I cringed a few times. Chamber of Horrors is very graphic and visually stimulating, if you love horror and gore, this place has it all.

“One priceless truth I’m continually brought back to time and time again when i come to my mat is the power of gratitude. Yoga teaches me how to find gratitude for the uncomfortable positions in life; for the hard truths that life brings; for the challenging experiences that inevitably will come; for the blessings, as well as the trying times. For out of these defying moments we begin to become our truest, purest self. From these experiences we are able to love deeply, to live humbly, to know..

...what it is to be alive. These are the moments when we are reborn. ~T.D.”

“I first found yoga in 2007. I’ve always enjoyed anything fitness related, however yoga became so much more than fitness to me. I didn’t realize the true power of yoga in my life until a battle with cancer a few years ago. I attended a hot yoga class hoping to find not only physical healing, but emotional healing as well. It was in this time that I fell in love. The true health and wellness that yoga has brought to my mind, body, and spirit are undeniable...”

“...Teaching yoga allows me to share my experiences with others, helping them realize their inner strengths; it also allows me to uniquely express who I am. Most importantly it allows me to pour out my love for people, and my love for being alive onto every soul that I meet!”

TRUST IN YOU

Good Dad

A father doesn't see himself in the morning, he sees opportunity for his children. A father doesn't wake up with pride he wakes up humble. The thought to ensure the safety of ones child, a father helps the child grow with nourishment and growth of mind with the knowledge of structure and self discipline. A father has no thought of himself. He lives to create tomorrow. For the sake of his child it might seem like he's doing this for himself, but at the end of the day he is like a lion trying to take care of his pride. His child is more important than any other. The world he lives in is also his child's world. By living in a pattern of want with no perception of what they truly want, expectations become meaningful. Sometimes it's hard to rationalize until the moment an epiphany arrives. Realizing we can have more much more than what we had before. You become a father who introduces time as a virtue. When creating this imagery of a father you introduce humbleness as worth. Patience now becomes the main part of survival for your child or children. To become a father it's similar to the growth of a rose or a flower that needs to be bloomed, taken care of thoroughly. It will grow on portions, worthy of the sunlight, worthy to be captivated by others. A child's growth of awareness, of sociability will increase or decrease by his parents choices on how to estimate a child's well-being and help focus those opportunities on the belief to make make a brighter future for themselves and all in their populous.

A man with short dark hair, a goatee, and visible tattoos on his neck and face. He has a wide-eyed, slightly open-mouthed expression. He is wearing a black t-shirt with white text. The background is a plain, light-colored wall.

PAINTINGS BY JASON ACKERMAN

In life, there is a saying “Without pain there is no gain” By the same token that anything worth it can only come from overcoming hardships with lots of hard work, perseverance and a great outlook on life. The very gifted and innovative international award-winning artist, Jason Ackerman, embodies this through his vivid and unapologetically thought-provoking paintings as well as in his imaginative and unique tattoo styles. In embracing his pain, Jason has found all the gains. He has created amazing pieces that invoke deep thought and reflection over the subject it portrays without taking itself too seriously and being offensive or crude. One cannot help but admire and respect the journey Jason has found himself on. Born and raised in New Jersey, he found himself going through a challenging and dark time that led him to travel down to Boca Raton, FL for a brand new start. That is where he found his saving grace in the form of tattoo art and piercing, where he began his career as a piercer in which he learned the trade in a local tattoo shop. With gained experience, he went on to start his own shop. You can go check out his work first hand at World Famous Ink and Studio 28, which is where he has built an amazing legacy while also finding a home within.

Considering himself a “lowbrow surrealist”, Jason has been tattooing for over 15 years and has been painting for over ten. He was inspired to become more political after finishing and debuting his take on Trump with the memorable “Alternative Drive”, a painting of Trump in a pink Sunday dress and hat sitting in a car that commemorates Russia by using Vladimir Putin’s head as the car emblem. A painting that now has place in rock legend Motley Crew member Tommy Lee’s home. He also has other just as interesting pieces like taking on the Pope and the Catholic church scandals and icons such as Gandhi and Lincoln shedding light on their lesser known demons. Throughout his life he has met his demons and conquered them all while maintaining a very upbeat and down-to-earth charismatic attitude towards life and shows no signs of being stopped.

-Edu Ehko Rodriguez

The Living Gallery

Tucked away in a corner of Manhattan stands The Living Gallery Outpost, a quaint little art gallery with plenty of character and charm. During the month of September, renowned tattoo artist, Jason Ackerman, debuted some of his most recent paintings.

Painting quickly became a much-loved hobby which has been in Jason's life nearly as long as tattooing has, and it only took a few strokes for him to discover this new found love. Within his featured gallery he displayed some interestingly controversial pieces of art, all of which were created to extract shock and conversation out of its viewers.

Within the gallery, hanging on the wall directly parallel to the entrance, was "Tithing", a painting of the Pope. The meaning behind it is, according to Jason, self explanatory. The people of today do not take responsibility for their actions. They instead blame everyone else or disregard it ever happening, and churches do the same.

Another painting that particularly stood out to me was "Rhino Snail", which Jason dubs as his guardian and mascot. This one symbolizes strength but still uses its shell to hide its insecurities, much like the average human does today.

A third was "Sitcom Consumption". This painting came about during a very dark period in Jason's life. He suffered a deep depression and kept himself locked in his house for six months binge watching Netflix, and so the painting was born. Jason says, "The flower with the eye signifies society is always watching and judging, and the parking meter [represents] our government [who] is always watching."

A recurring theme throughout his artwork are tentacles. Jason uses them as a representation of the darkness everyone struggles with, the fight between good and evil. According to an excerpt off of his website, they are intended to express his past coming to get him, his constant struggle to always move forward while striving to not fall into the trappings of his demons.

The small room was filled with prospective buyers within a matter of moments after opening, and it remained full the entire night. Friends of Jason showed up to offer their support emotionally and through purchasing a few paintings. Jason also expressed his comedic side for us by striking humorous poses with various pieces of his artwork, as well as with his wife and friends. There were a lot of laughs, a lot of pictures, and even some delicious sangria for visitors to enjoy.

If you are interested in viewing more of Jason Ackerman's artwork, please feel free to visit his website at www.JasonAckermanDesigns.com

ScissorSalute™

Uniting Barbers and Stylists Worldwide
7-9PM
on StrongIsland.tv

The ScissorSalute™ Show is an internet radio show that broadcasts LIVE every Monday night. The studio is located in Massapequa, New York. Their purpose behind the show is to unite barbers and stylists worldwide. Every week they look to feature one barber and one hairstylist who showcase live on their stage. For those who cannot make the trip to the studio, ScissorSalute™ offers the option to call in and do an interview over the phone. On the show they give hair professionals the opportunity to not only share their talents with the world but give them a voice to express their opinions. ScissorSalute™ is built over 3 concepts: information, education and inspiration. People from all walks of life and skill levels are invited. By focusing on passion as the main reason they invite people onto the show, this gives the show a more profound impact on their viewers and gives them more options when recruiting for the show.

The show is viewed by going to the ScissorSalute™ Show Facebook page every Monday night from 7-9pm EST or by downloading the ScissorSalute Show app (available for Android and Apple.) If you miss the live broadcast you can still see the replays on the Facebook page or on the app. Their presense on social media is very strong. Since their move to Facebook, ScissorSalute™ is averaging over 4,000 viewers weekly. On Instagram, between the staff, they have over 50,000 followers. Their hashtag #ScissorSalute is extremely popular as well. It is currently receiving about 2,500 posts a week. They are looking to keep you updated on the show weekly in this spot. Please make sure to check back and see what they are up to.

The October 2nd 2017 episode of the #ScissorSaluteShow was a special one. It was dedicated to the friends and family who were devastated by Hurricane Maria.

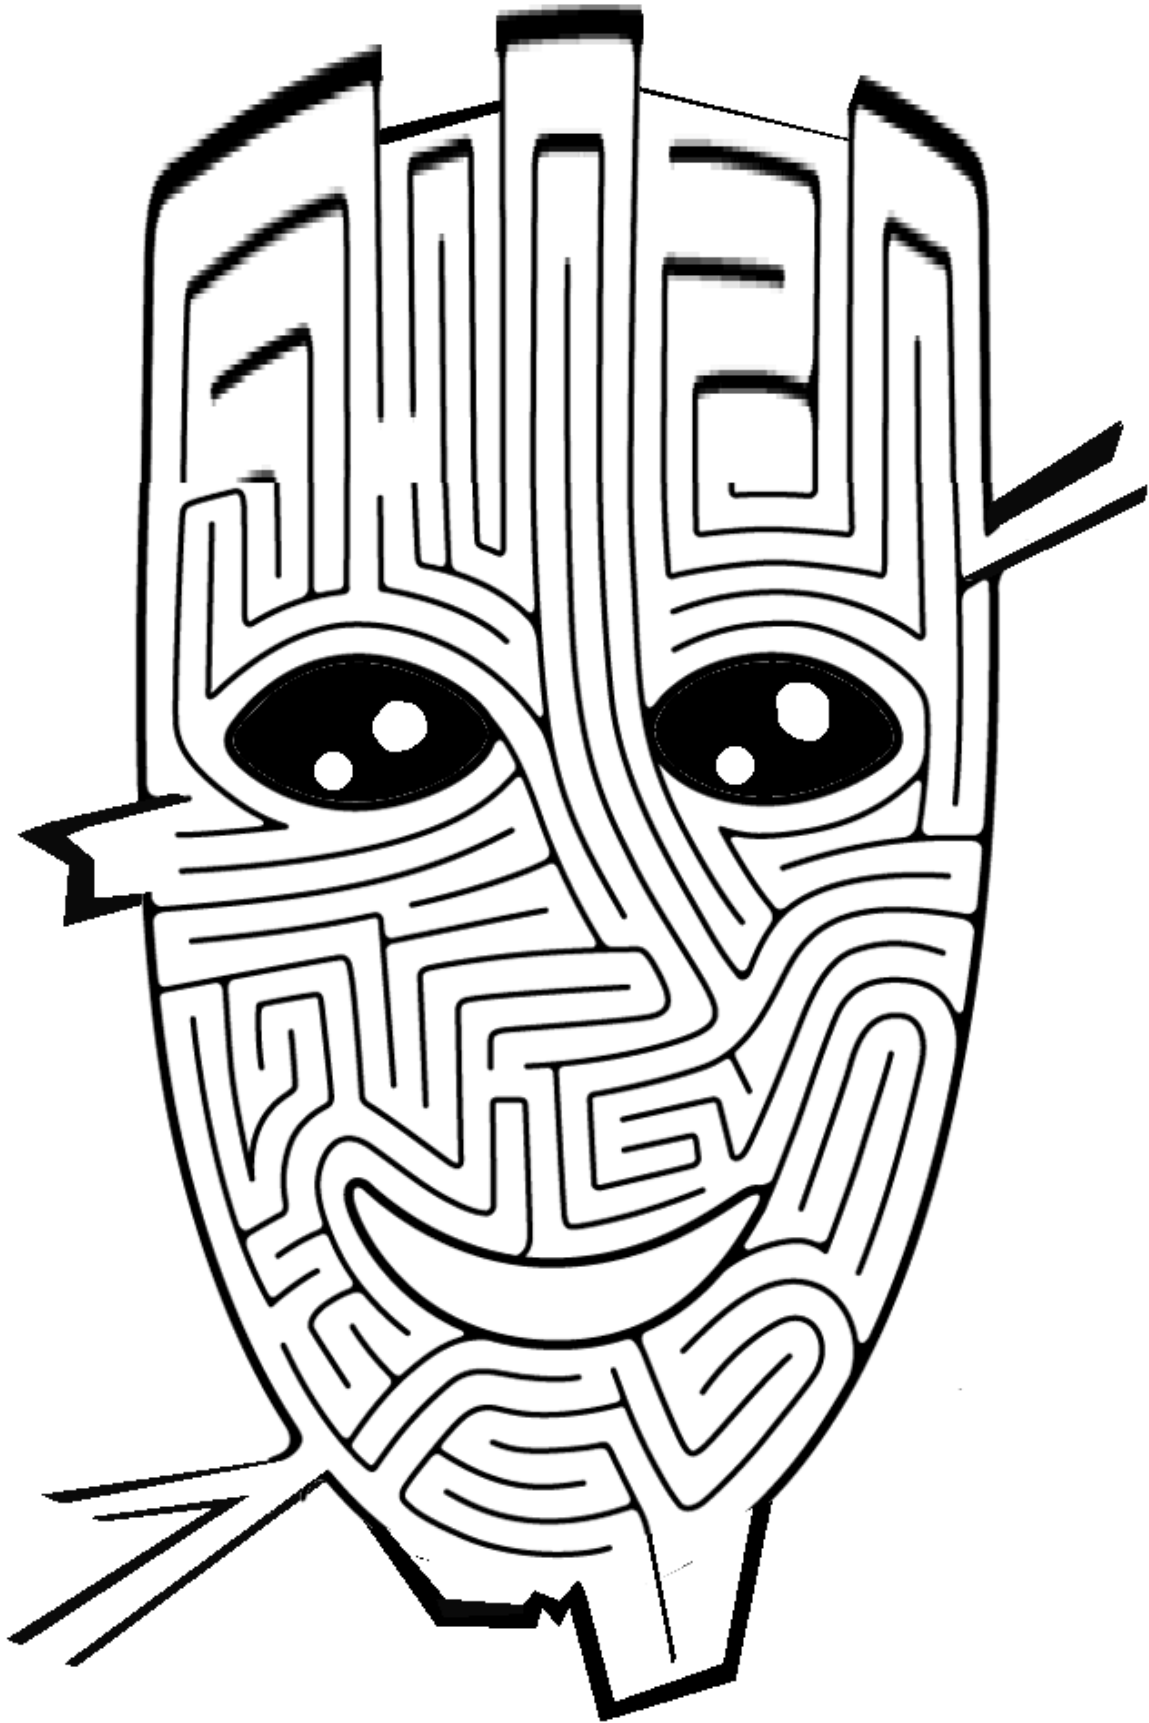

The show featured a showcase by Colombian Barber, Lucas (@parce_cuts) who works at Kings Of Blades Barbershop located in Farmingville, New York. He did a haircut that featured braids on top. Our second showcase of the evening was also from Kings Of Blades Barbershop. The barber's name is DJ (@dj_the_barber). He did a haircut with a Puerto Rican flag design to help capture the mood of this special show.

The call in for the evening was Lici Febo (@lici_ladybarber) from San Antonio, Texas. She weighed in on the situation over there with testimonies from friends and family. Everyone has been affected by this tragedy.

Our in studio guest was Casper Quiñones (@onesickbarber). He has teamed up with different businesses in the Brooklyn area to form The Brooklyn Way. They are a group of people who have come together to pool their resources and do what they can to help the people of Puerto Rico deal with the crisis over there and the response has been incredible! People from all over have been donating whatever they can to help the cause.

We all deal with issues individually, but when something happens that affects anyone and everyone it is great to see certain individuals go above and beyond to make a tough situation as bearable as possible. Stay tuned in this spot for others who do their best to push the professions forward and to change people's perceptions.

BACK IN EFFECT

Aggressive Combat Championships are back with a brand new location, the Westchester County Center in New York. ACC 17 will be a fight card no fight fan should miss out on, with five title fights, and a host of high level mixed martial arts fights from some of the best MMA gyms all over the north east.

Owners Tom Kilkenny and Eugene Perez have been in the business for many years. The founders of grapplers quest, USMTA is one of, if not the best, sanctioning bodies in mixed martial arts. Tom and Eugene make it a point to go that extra mile to make sure both fighters and fans leave with more than they expected. Between the venue of a five thousand seat arena, the man who keeps us moving DJ Slushy, world renowned ring announcer David Diamante, and you can't forget miss Aggressive Combat Championships Melisa Vlaslaty ring card girl. Just when you think there can't be any more fantastic features on this fight card, there's more. USMTA referees world known Big Dan Miragliotta, Kevin Mulhall, and chief of officials Alexius Phoenix will be controlling the action, while Hurricane Shane Burgos, undefeated UFC star, will be commentating the fights with Eric Kowal. Aggressive Combat Championships will be aired LIVE on FLoCombat and will be covered by the best mixed martial arts news outlets: Our very own Kerry Stellar from In The Girls Corner, MyMMANEWS, Sportsonthego1, and AXStv.

This fight card is stacked already with about twenty fights. Five of them are title fights, and three are women's mixed martial arts fights. Women always bring energy to a fight that is so beautifully ferocious, equal to their beauty themselves.

Most of the fighters hail from the New York, New Jersey, Connecticut area, so the Westchester County Center is the perfect location, and easily accessible.

This is a fight card you wont want to miss, ACC has two of the best in the business match making and bringing you the best fight event.

Go to www.acmma.com for tickets.

Stay tuned as there will be more news coming from Aggressive Combat Championships and we will keep you updated!!

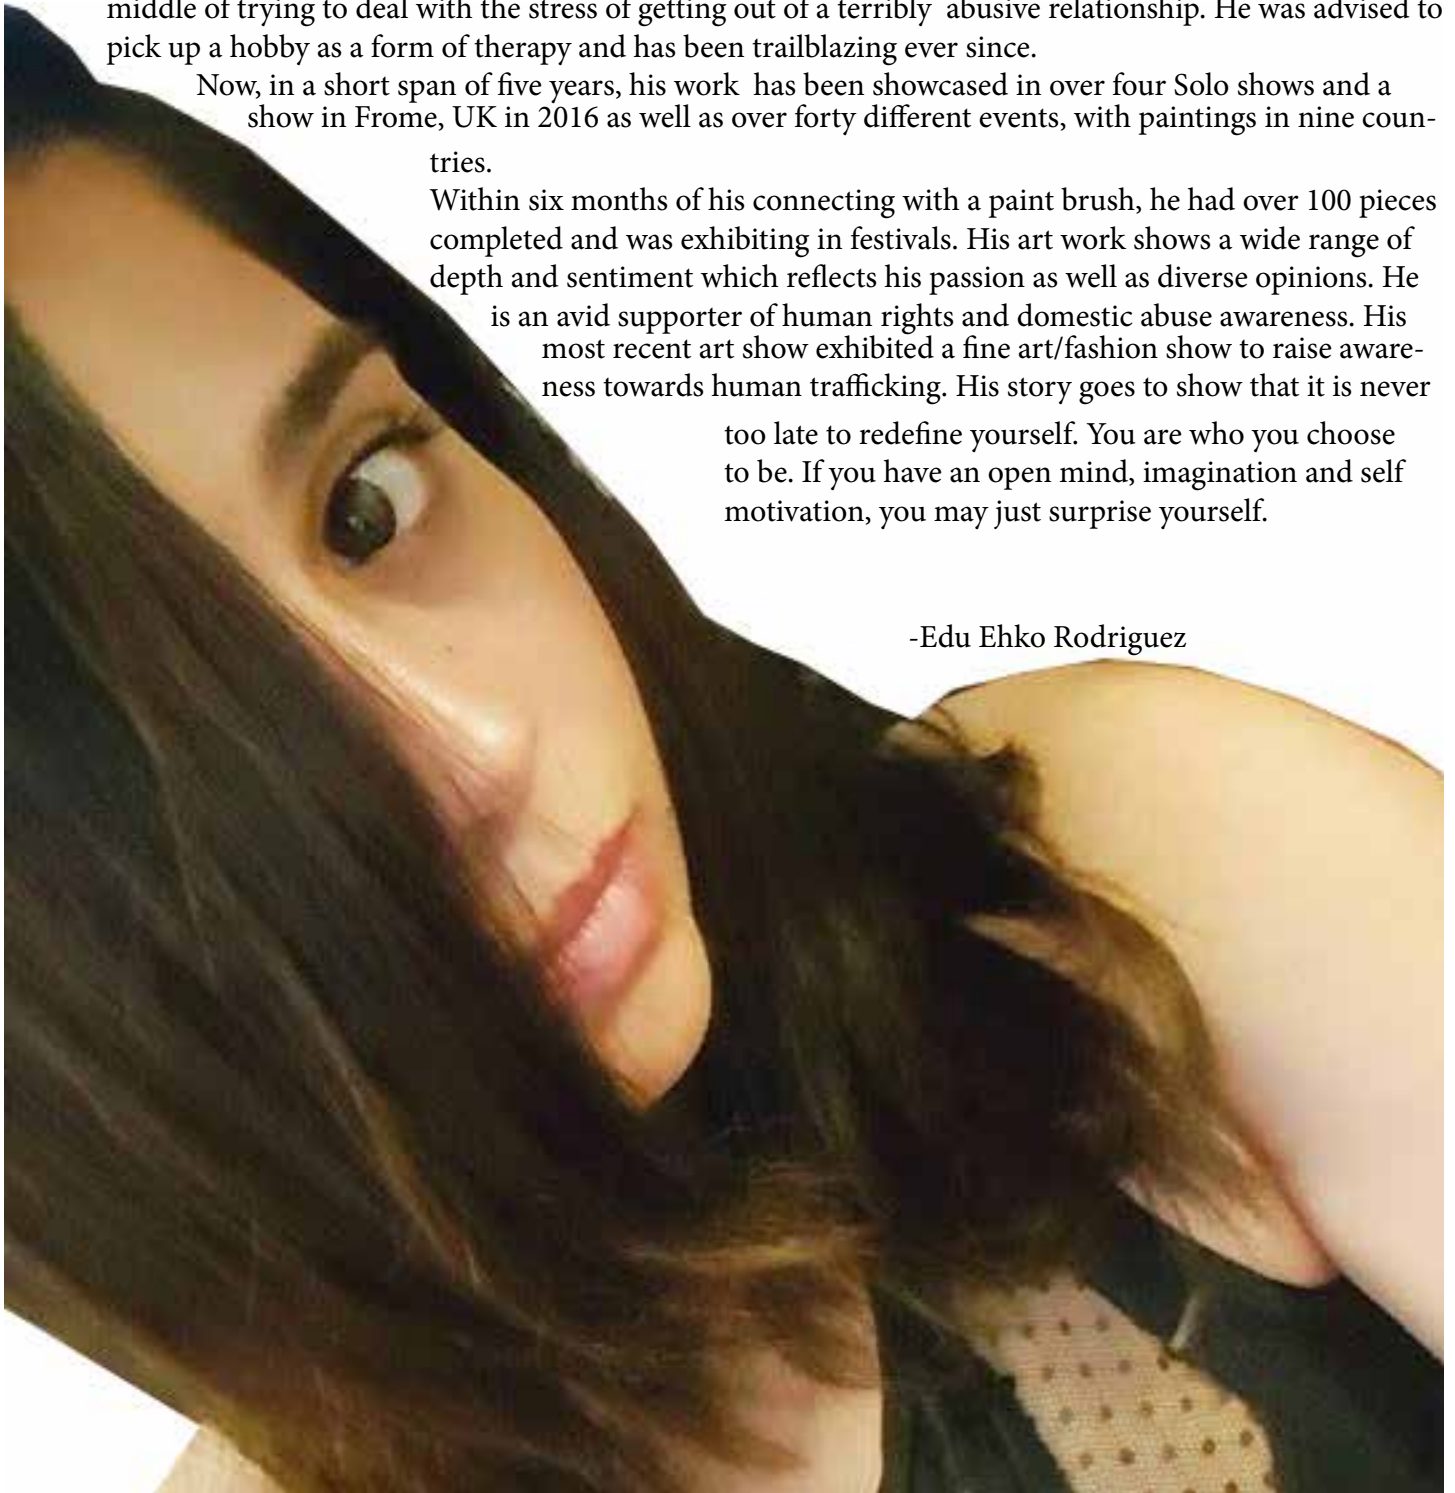

The Artist Dan Guido

The phrase “You are either born with it or not” gets thrown out of the window when it comes to Dan Guido. The self-taught abstract expressionist artist has come a long way in the art scene in a short period of time. A native New Yorker, Guido was born in Queens on June 10th, 1975. Now a proud Long Islander, he did not discover his passion and love for art until much later on in life. After many trials and tribulations, Guido navigated in and out of nine-to-five situations until he decided to go into business and build a career for himself. He stumbled across art at a time in his life when he had lost sight of who he was and what he wanted in the middle of trying to deal with the stress of getting out of a terribly abusive relationship. He was advised to pick up a hobby as a form of therapy and has been trailblazing ever since.

Now, in a short span of five years, his work has been showcased in over four Solo shows and a show in Frome, UK in 2016 as well as over forty different events, with paintings in nine countries.

Within six months of his connecting with a paint brush, he had over 100 pieces completed and was exhibiting in festivals. His art work shows a wide range of depth and sentiment which reflects his passion as well as diverse opinions. He is an avid supporter of human rights and domestic abuse awareness. His most recent art show exhibited a fine art/fashion show to raise awareness towards human trafficking. His story goes to show that it is never too late to redefine yourself. You are who you choose to be. If you have an open mind, imagination and self motivation, you may just surprise yourself.

-Edu Ehko Rodriguez

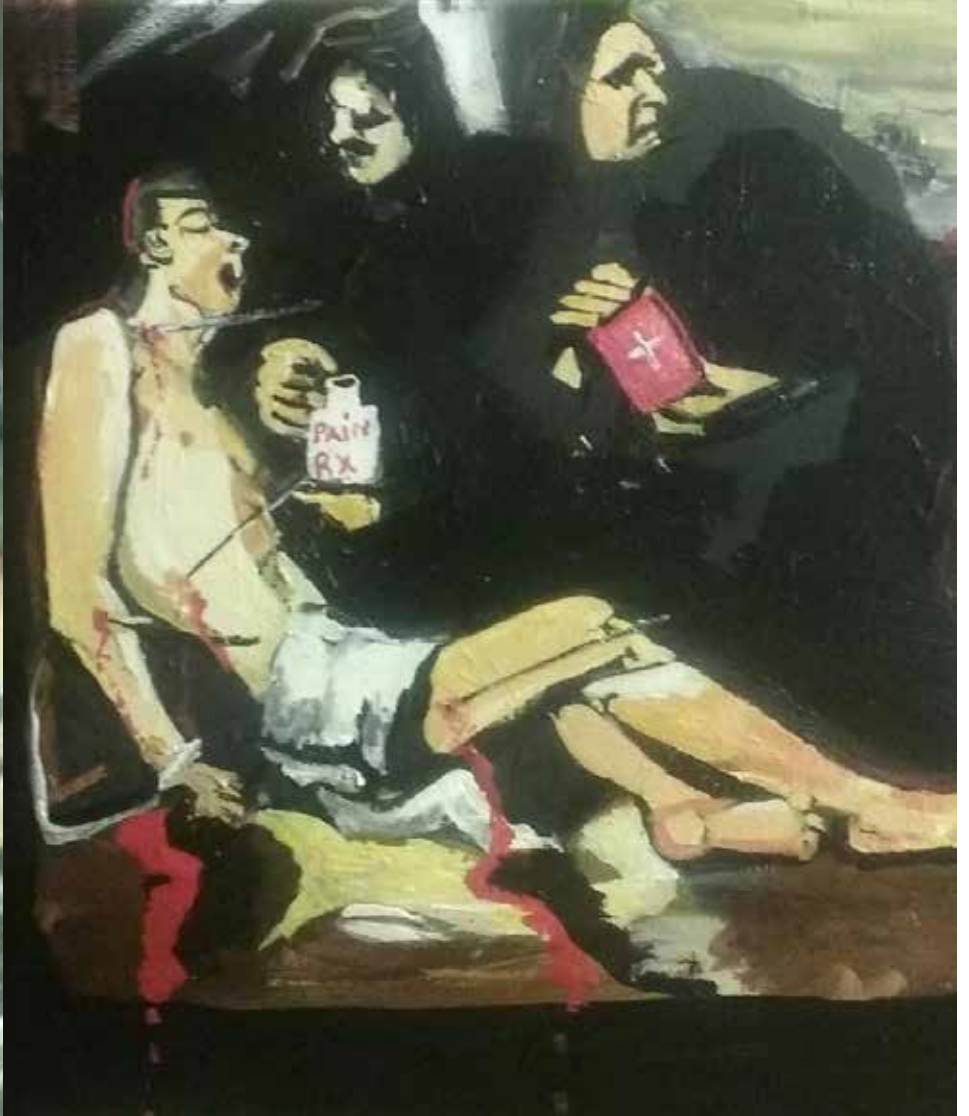

Hey, thanks for sitting down and speaking with me. How are you?

Thank you for having me.

What do you want people in the art community, and general community, to take from your work?

My goals right now are to be showing in multiple galleries by end of the summer. Planning another trip over to U.K and show there again. I am focused on getting my website and work seen. I have a few shows coming up in Manhattan this summer and fall. I have support in my community from past projects and now I am full steam ahead on getting representation and fulfilling my destiny. I want to have art on every continent in the world.

At Riebe's Artists Materials, we offer a vast selection of art supplies for everyone from beginners to established artists, and carry everything from artist furniture and tools to drawing and painting supplies for all types of media. Who We are

At Existence+ we're here to help you cultivate, reveal, and live the best version of you! Our site is designed to offer you guidance on building and rebuilding yourself. By sharing and discussing what countless others have done to ensure promising opportunities, you will find yourself in a positive position ready to seize the day. "Carpe diem!" By allowing us to show you what others have accomplished and achieved with their new found lease on living, you too will reap the benefits that life has to offer.

Existence+ gives you a new lease on thinking so that you can live and enjoy your life. With continual growth, you will find yourself in a continuous path of progression which leads to personal success! We will showcase members of the community who shine above the rest, and help lead you down the same paths. We have found that learning from positive influences can only yield positive results. Don't forget - We are molded by the influences of our environments. This is the Ex+ Project, better known as Existence Plus. We look for positive atmospheres and help grow them in our community by helping you become the best version of you! We help build your productivity with safety, happiness, health, art and wealth. We look forward to joining you on your journey to become the best you!

Ruby's K9s

Dog training with results.

Who I am:

My name is Ruby. I'm a 25 year old woman living in East Patchogue, NY. Animals have always been a passion of mine, particularly dogs. I knew I wanted my career to revolve around animals one way or another. I tried vet tech school, I tried grooming, I tried kennel assistants, and I even tried working at a dog daycare in a cage free boarding and daycare environment. None of them interested me as much as I thought they would. Then I met a man who's career was dog training. I began working closely with him to learn as much as I possibly could, as well as studied other trainers. I researched canine behavior, nutrition, and the history of mans best friend. I'm proud to say I've come a long way since I first started working with dogs and would like to extend my hand in help for all the dog owners out there.

What I offer:

My style of training is a mixture of many different styles. Anyone can tell you every dog is different and doesn't respond to the same style of training as others. For example, Fluffy might do excellent on positive reinforcement only training, but Max might not respond to positive reinforcement only and may need a firmer hand. This is why I've decided to learn about all types of training and will use my knowledge to evaluate your dog and determine the proper training technique for each individual dog.

I can help you teach your dog to obey commands in high distraction environments, teach them fun tricks, and can help you potty train your new pup.

I also offer a canine nutrition program where I will meet with you and discuss your dogs diet, go over the proper diet for a dog, and discuss ways to help trim excess fat off of your dog to ensure they live a healthier, longer life.
